City in stable financial condition

Auditors say Treasury Department could change situation

The long-awaited Touche & Ross audit was unveiled last Tuesday for council scrutiny and the city's financial picture produced mixed reaction from the administration and council members.

But, despite the fact that there is an Attorney General's directive hanging over the city which recommends that the city of Romulus transfer between $1.4 million to $1.8 million to the water debt service fund, the city appears to be in stable fiscal waters.

That was the message Touche & Ross auditors Robert Beaudrie and Joseph Yarabek brought to the council chambers last Tuesday. Although last Tuesday's audit was a "tentative one", according to Beaudrie and Yarabek, they pointed out there would be "little, if any changes in the final document."

Is the city in financial trouble? "As I see it presently I would have to say 'no,'" Yarabek replied. "However, there is another matter with the Department of Treasury and the Attorney General Office whereby they have noted the city must transfer $1.8 million to the Sewer Debt Retirement Fund."

"No one knows exactly how this is going to be resolved, and we address ourselves to this problem in the accountant's report, but there has been no final ruling either by the Treasury Department or the Attorney General's Office. We know that the city has been negotiating with the Treasury Department and so far the figure appears to be $1.8 million, but there is nothing final," Yarabek added.

Yarabek stressed that another pertinent question surrounding the sewer debt retirement "is, once decided on how much the figure is, what's going to be done about it?"

"I believe there are many different options that will be made available to the city," Yarabek continued. "They (Treasury Department) can order the city to pay back the money over a period of years or make other recommendations. Obviously they aren't going to be very negative toward the city. They are going to try to help resolve the problem not compound it."

"And it's very difficult to say what the impact of this decision is going to have on the over-all financial view of the city. Until this is finally resolved between the two parties, and I don't know how long it will take, there will be some strains.

The city has already agreed to $1.4 million, so it's going to take awhile to negotiate this thing."

The auditors did commend the City's Treasurer's Office and Treasurer Beverly McAnally for generating investment income. Yarabek said that the Treasurer was maximizing on the interest income.

"The total interest on investments for the year was approximately $797,000," Yarabek said, "and we would like to say that the Treasurer's Office was keeping the city funds — their excess cash — invested in funds that are producing interest revenues."

"They are trying to maximize on as much interest income as they can," he added. "It is a laborious task and they've done a fine job." The two-year battle between the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and the city over payment of services rendered to the tune of $800,000 has apparently been resolved. The sheriff's patrols were discontinued in Romulus because of county budget cutbacks in 1981, forcing the city to create its own police department. However, the city apparently owes on services rendered.

"The liability has been already recognized as such and has been set up as a liability in the city statements, so this will be paid," Yarabek revealed.

Yarabek described the financial picture was "fair-to-good" for the city.

"The city has a fund balance of approximately $1.7 million, operating on a budget of $8 million revenues and I would say that the total financial condition on an over-all basis is fair to good.

"The city is not putting off vendors or delaying payments or anything," Yarabek continued. "Yes, they have a few things they have to work out like this thing with the Treasury Department, but over-all I would say that they are better off today than they were last year."

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry chastised the auditors for presenting the tentative audit "late".

"We have had no communications with your offices for several months," Raspberry said, "and whether the audit is one day or six months late it is late. It is imperative we have figures before us in order to do our jobs and let me remind you that it is the council that hires and pays your bills."

Councilman John Lewkowicz also reminded the auditors that in the past workshops were set up to help council be informed about the city's financial health.

"We didn't know where we stood — if the city had $10 or if we were broke. Past auditors kept us constantly informed on where we were."

"We are not getting the information to function as a council therefore I'm very concerned. I didn't even know you were coming here tonight," Lewkowicz concluded.

Mayor William Oakley pointed out that the auditors did say that they would be before council after appearing two weeks ago to answer questions.

"The only mistake is mine," Mayor Oakley said, "because I didn't identify the auditors on the agenda. Two weeks ago the auditors were here and they said they would return in two weeks. It was a council directive that they be here tonight."

them. I will only be happy to answer questions."

Romulus presently levies 42.32 mills for its schools, and the three additional mills would put it at 45.32. However, that total remains far less than what neighboring school districts impose on their taxpayers.

"Residential property has gone down in Romulus," Dr. Bedell noted. "The value has decreased approximately 6 percent, but we (the schools) are not going to lose that much SEV because industry didn't decline, in fact, we got some

Chamber's ready for Vegas nite

The Greater Chamber of Commerce will hold its Las Vegas Party between the hours of 6 p.m. and 1 a.m. on Sat., March 26 at the Romulus Progressive Hall, 11580 Ozga Rd., at Goddard.

Tickets are available at the Chamber offices or by telephoning 941-5710. There is a $5 donation.

Baumann says reports 'vague'

Councilman Barry Baumann would like commissions and committees to be more specific in their reports to city council. Last week the first-term councilman asked Mayor William Oakley if he could request that the Housing Commission or "any other commission" be more specific on action taken.

"They are so vague that I personally can't understand from their reports what they are doing," Baumann said.

The mayor said he would pass the message on to the responsible parties.

'Tardy' auditors put on carpet

After the tongue-lashing the city auditors received from councilman Jimmie Raspberry for presenting the audit late, you can bet that Touche & Ross will either make the deadline next year or that there will be another firm auditing the city's finances a year from now.

The cable connection

Romulus Mayor William Oakley (at right) is all smiles as Don Barden, President and Chief Executive of Barden Cablevision presents the mayor with a $50,000 check, costs associated with the franchise agreement. This ceremony took place during Barden's Christmas Party last December when Barden promised the Romulus system would be operational before the end of 1983. He has apparently fulfilled that promise. Local subscribers will have cable TV available sometime in June. That's City Treasurer Beverly McAnally looking over Barden's shoulders.

System ready in June

Barden cablevision is right on schedule

Now that "On" has been turned off, when can Romulus and Van Buren residents expect Barden Cablevision to usher in the cablevision era in their respective communities?

"Our engineering and design of the system are nearing completion," said Don Barden, President and Chief Executive Officer of Barden Cablevision, "and the men are out in the field working. We anticipate that the system in Romulus will be turned on sometime in the middle of June."

"And we believe that the Van Buren system will also be available to subscribers very shortly after that," Barden added.

Barden, whose company constructed the Inskter system and is in the running for the Detroit Franchise, was awarded the local franchises late last year after Comcast Corp. had suddenly and abruptly pulled out of the communities.

Barden said that he has had no problems in the construction phase of either the Romulus or the Van Buren systems.

"We're working full speed ahead," Barden continued, "and we really have not had any problems. There was a snag in the negotiations for an office site in Romulus but basically that has

Attorney General:

City is expected to present sewer repayment plan

In a letter addressed to Mayor William Oakley, and signed by Regina Ann King, assistant Attorney General, the city has been put on notice that it will have to come up with a repayment schedule for the sewer debt retirement funds once the amount determined.

The letter, in its entirety, is as follows:

This letter will serve to confirm understanding of the results of the meeting held February 24, 1983 in my office involving representatives of the City, Municipal Finance Commission and Treasury. Present, besides ourselves, were Linda Dickinson of Representative Mohalak's Office, Jimmie C. Raspberry, Beverly McAnally, John Lewkowicz and Patsy Cantrell from the City of Romulus, Donald Fitcher and Anton Presecan from the Municipal Finance Commission, and David Grunst with my office.

The above referenced audit discloses expenditure of the water and sewer debt retirement funds for other than debt retirement purposes in violation of, inter alia, the Municipal Finance Act, 1943 PA 202, as amended, ch 7, SS 1a and 1b.

The total of such expenditures, after netting sewer debt service for which a millage was not levied in several years against overlevy for water, has been calculated as of June 30, 1981.

This calculation is subject to bring down figures to June 30, 1983, and confirmation of calculation by Treasury and the City and resolution of any differences by April 1, 1983.

After agreement on the net transfer figure to be repaid, the City will be expected to present to the Municipal Finance Commission a tentative plan for repayment of these funds during the 1983-1984 fiscal year by May 1, 1983, and a final plan approved by the City Council by June 30, 1983.

The board outline of the proposed repayment plan, as discussed at our meeting, is as follows:

1 — Repayment to the water debt service fund of the amount, in present value terms with investments tailored to the maturities of the outstanding water bonds, that will be sufficient to insure repayment of the water bonds. The remaining will be deposited in the sewer debt service fund and used only for debt service on the outstanding sewer bonds.

2 — The City is to insure that, it will be unnecessary in the future to levy taxes for the water bonds. Levy for the sewer bonds, if necessary, will commence only after the repaid debt retirement funds have been utilized for that purpose.

3 — The transfers are to be repaid by the appropriate fund that should have been properly charged originally with the expenditure had not the transfer been made.

If your understanding in any way differs from the above, immediate response is requested. The Department of Treasury, by copy of this letter, is being requested to contact you shortly to enable completion of the plan by the timetable set forth above.

As further stated at the meeting, this plan is for purposes of repaying the transfers at this time and does not foreclose any further action by the Municipal Finance Commission, Department of Treasury or this office that may be deemed appropriate in light of current information or future information that may become available.

Schools to seek 3-mills

"We're not trying to deceive anyone or cover up the facts in any way. If a citizen or a taxpayer has any questions about his school taxes, I will gladly answer any of their questions or concerns."

That was the message Dr. William Bedell, Superintendent of Romulus Community Schools, had for critics of the board's proposal to raise taxes 3 mills.

The board of education earlier had voted to place the 3-mill (a mill is $1 of state equalized evaluation) levy on the April 18 special school ballot.

"Our teachers have taken across-the-board salary cutbacks," Dr. Bedell said, "and we have maintenance problems. We have cut back on our programs. I personally invite any and all citizens to attend board meeting to air their concerns. We're not hiding anything from

The Michigan Department of Public Health noted that "the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan didn't submit a recommendation on the project and the financing will come from the owner's personal funds."

Scouts have an unusual kite

Stemming from Westland incident

2 Romulus youths accused of assault

Two Romulus men have been named in warrants, issued last week by 18th District Court, in connection with the break-in of a Westland home last Monday morning and the assault of two of four teens in the house at the time.

Being sought by Westland Police on charges of armed robbery, kidnapping and criminal sexual conduct are Ernest Bouillard, 26, and Bruce McGhee, 20, last known to have been living at 6679 Merriman Road, Romulus.

According to Sgt. Emery Price, officer in charge of the case, the two suspects apparently entered the Pardo Street house at about 1:10 a.m., possibly through a door left open for the teens' father, since no sign of forced entry could be found.

The suspects, armed with a handgun and a hunting knife, ransacked the home, taking some costume jewelry and papers and money from the young women's purses.

They then allegedly ordered the 14- and 15-year-old girls to tie up their 18-year-old sister with sheets. They themselves were then blindfolded and allegedly led to a car, parked a short distance from the home.

According to Price, the suspects allegedly drove around for awhile before taking the two teens to an apartment complex in Romulus, where in a vacant apartment, they sexually assaulted one of the girls and attempted to assault the other.

Their sister, who was able to free herself and her brother, who was sleeping in the basement of the home at the time of the break-in, summoned police.

Price noted that work by Officers Dan Harvey and Les Hall at the scene led officers to the Romulus apartment complex, where they located the suspect's car, a 1972 Mercury belonging to Bouillard.

It is believed that the two men saw the police officers investigating the car and fled, leaving the two teens in the apartment. The two girls ran to the police officers, when it became apparent the suspects were gone.

Police believe that both Bouillard and McGhee are still in the area.

GFWC picks 'leader of tomorrow'

Leaders of tomorrow are made today.

And Belleville High's William Armstrong has those qualities that will place him among the leaders of tomorrow. One Belleville group believes so.

The GFWC Belleville Junior Study Club, in cooperation with James Richendollar, Principal at Belleville High, and Cynthia Coleman, Counselor, have selected William Armstrong to participate in this year's Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation International Leadership Seminar competition, as Ambassador from Belleville.

The local competition was open to all high school sophomores.

The criteria for selection consisted of evidence of emerging leadership ability, cooperation with fellow human beings and sensitivity to the needs of others, ability to relate to new pursuits and acquaintances, and the desire to learn and share knowledge and experience with others.

Armstrong will attend the Michigan Leadership Seminar on June 3 to 5 at the Hoyt Conference Center at Eastern Michigan University with other outstanding sophomores from throughout Michigan.

Building tomorrow's leaders

There was a lot to talk about when GFWC representative Patricia Antonelli (at left) got together with awards recipient William Armstrong (center) and Belleville High principal James Richendollar. Armstrong was named as the local Junior Study Club's ambassador to the prestigious Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Leadership Seminar.

At this State Leadership Seminar, conducted by the Dearborn Heights Jaycees, one boy and one girl will be selected to attend the annual, all-expense paid, week-long International Leadership Seminar on "America's Incentive System."

The International Leadership Seminar, sponsored by the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation and coordinated by the University of Central Florida will be conducted at the Walt Disney World Epcot Center August 5 through 13.

Those selected to participate in the International Leadership Seminar will interact with top tenth graders from every state in the nation and at least twelve other countries and with prominent leaders in business, government, education and the professions.

Sponsor of the program is the Belleville Junior Study Club. For further information, please contact Pat Antonelli of the Belleville Junior Study Club at 941-2805.

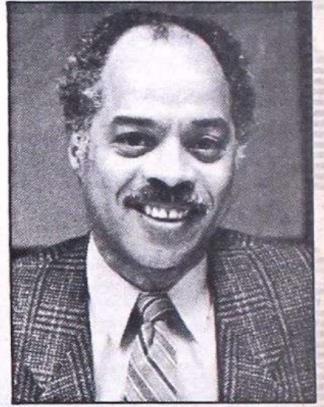

At a special meeting following its monthly study session, the Wayne County Community College Board of Trustees voted to appoint George Bell as President of the 22,000 student institution.

Succeeding Interim President Thomas F. Waters to the office of WCCC chief executive, Bell will assume the presidential role with a working knowledge of the college, having actively served on its seven-member trustee board since November of 1976 through December 31 of last year.

Charged with the duties of Trustee Vice-Chairperson (November, 1976-December 1977) and Board Treasurer (January, 1978-December 1978) Bell acted as Chairperson of the governing board from January 1979 through 1982.

During his recent service to Wayne County Community College, Bell, 49, also served as President of Detroit's Central Board of Education, of which he has been a member since 1975. In addition he has held chairmanship of the Detroit Board of Education's Region 1 and performed the executive duties as Director of the City of Detroit's Butzel Child/Family Center.

Active in public and social service in the Detroit and metropolitan area since 1973, Bell's interest in higher education and municipal affairs have been reflected in his early experience as a teacher, as an administrator for Detroit's Shaw College and as a former Executive Assistant to Mayor Coleman Young.

GEORGE BELL

Receiving his formal education at the University of Pittsburgh and Cheveney State College, Pennsylvania, from which he received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Education in 1961, George Bell was granted a Master of Arts Degree in Sociology from the University of Detroit in 1974 and specialized training from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Alfred P. Sloan School of Management.

"We look forward to Mr. Bell's coming to WCC3 as President with great anticipation" says Board of Trustee Chairperson Doris J. Miller. "Our institution has been in the process of development for quite a while, and the Board's confidence in its new chief executive will certainly be matched by the challenges which await him."

Romulus to ask taxpayers for 3-additional mills for schools

growth. "What will happen is that the property owners will be paying less next year in taxes, but we'll be getting about the same money. Taxpayers must remember that the tax levy will be levied on a smaller SEV, so their tax bill next year, if nothing else happens, will go down approximately 3 mills.

"We're asking them for those 3 mills," Dr. Bedell said.

On April 18 the Board of Education is conducting an election to offer two proposals. One is a 3-mill operating increase to help keep the school open. The second, is a bond issue for $800,000, which was triggered by a search for asbestos ordered by the Environmental Protection Agency.

All public schools in the State of Michigan have until June 28, 1983 to self-check for friable asbestos or face up to $1,200 a day in fines. This information was released at a Feb. 9 meeting at Romulus High School by the Michigan Director of Public Health, Vander Kolk.

Schools built or renovated following World War II to 1978 should be inspected. Romulus school officials

"I invite each and every citizen to attend board meetings to air their concerns ..." Dr. Bedell have been looking for friable asbestos that has the following characteristics:

- 1 — Fluffy or spongy appearance.
- 2 — Irregular soft surface.
- 3 — Textured dense fairly firm surfaces.

The Romulus High School ceilings have friable asbestos that have a fluffy or spongy appearance, school official said. Besides looking for asbestos in the ceilings, all building records have been checked and boiler and lagging pipe coverings have been checked for friable asbestos.

Asbestos has been used in cement products, plaster, fire-proofing, textiles, vinyl floor tiles, thermal and acoustical insulation in schools. The friable asbestos that has been found in Romulus High can be:

- 1 — Removed, which requires wetting, removal, collecting and burial in an approved waste disposal site. This removal is permanent.
- 2 — Encapsulation. Asbestos material is coated with a bonding agent used only with no possible water damage must be checked periodically for deterioration or damage. This is not permanent.

3 — Enclosure. It's usually a suspended ceiling between the asbestos and the building environment. This is not permanent, and if any work is done to the school, then the records have to be checked.

4 — Differed. No action is taken, but periodically, air samples are taken to check on the danger of the asbestos.

The Romulus Board has opted for the first solution.

"We felt the only solution was the permanent one", said Citizen Committee Chairman, Phyllis Kreft.

"We recommended this to the board because we want the problem solved so that no parent or child would ever have to worry about asbestos again." The board is hoping the public will approve the bond issue to protect the health and safety of the students. The issue also spreads the cost over several years so the project will benefit students for many years.

Belleville math whizzes in semis

Who said mathematics are tough?

Belleville High's Steve Eissinger and Galen Kenyon don't think so.

Eissinger and Kenyon are two scholarly seniors who have reached the semi-finals of the Michigan Mathematics Prize competitions. They got there by surviving local and area competition.

The competition consists of a series of tests with the results of the second test to determine the scholarships to be awarded at Alma College.

The students who score in the top 50 will be awarded scholarships ranging from $150 to $1,250 to be utilized for admissions to the college of their choice.

Barden says Romulus cable TV will be operational in June

been resolved." Barden said that when the operation gets underway he figures his company will employ 20 persons at his Romulus office and an equal number of employees at the Van Buren complex.

At his Inkster facility, Barden Cablevision offers subscribers some 54 channels of entertainment that includes a panorama of programs: first run movies — Home Box Office, Cinemas, Showtime — cable news network, religious, sports, public broadcast and public access channels.

The total cost to build the Romulus system is estimated at between $2.5 and $2.7 million. Barden figures there'll be approximately 3,500 to 4,000 of the 7,500 homes hooked into the cable system when completed.

Because Romulus is unique in that it houses one of the largest metropolitan airports in the country, will that pose any problem to the cablevision system?

"We have tested the site and we don't anticipate any problems with the airport," Barden noted, "and we have already received FAA clearances."

Born and raised in Inkster, Barden's credentials are very impressive. He had 11 years of combined experience as a TV news director (WUAB-TV) in Lorain/Cleveland, Ohio and did a weekly talk show (NBC-TV) in Cleveland. He also has four years political experience as a Lorain city councilman and served as an editor-publisher of the Lorain County Times Newspaper which he founded.

Through formal education and practical work experience he has established three corporations: The Don H. Barden Company (real estate development and investment, Urbanaction, Inc. (community development) and Barden Cablevision.

Barden also has been nominated twice as the "Most Outstanding Young Man of the Year" in Lorain County and has been listed in "Who's Who in Black America." He attended Central State University in Wilburforce, Ohio.

Dog days in Sumpter

These are "dog days" in Sumpter Township.

Township officials announced today that if you are a dog owner you have until April 1 to obtain a license for the animal.

The license fee is $3 for a male or unsexed dog and $5 for a female dog. Residents who do not have licenses on or before the April 1 deadline will pay double for the license.

Residents may also have their dogs vaccinated at either Fire Station 1 or Fire Station No. 2. On Sat.

March 19, from 1 to 4 p.m., vaccinations will be offered at Station No. 1, while from 1 to 4 p.m., Sat., March 26, dog owners may take them to Station No. 2 for vaccinations.

Fire Station No. 1 is located at 19731 Sumpter Rd., while Station No. 2 is at 27997 Sumpter Rd.

Township officials said that a dog census will be taken after April 1 and citizens who have unlicensed dogs will be issued violation tickets. Dog licenses will be available at the Sumpter Fire Stations during the time and dates of vaccinations.

Court to decide on Foster Care Home application

The courts will apparently have to decide whether a home for the mentally retarded can be constructed in a subdivision.

Wayne city officials and a Wayne homeowner are attempting to legally block construction of a home for the mentally retarded in the city's Whitney Knoll Subdivision.

Thomas Nakamoto, who owns the property adjacent to the proposed site of the foster care home, has filed a suit in Wayne County Circuit Court, claiming the facility would not be in the best interests of "the clients in the home or residents in the subdivision."

Named as defendants are Robert Hart of Canton, the property owner of the proposed site, and Chesley Summerville, the land developer who will build the home for the Northville Residential Training Center. A hearing on the litigation was scheduled last Friday.

In a separate legal action, Wayne City Attorney John P. McKinney revealed that the city will file a motion this week seeking a reconsideration of a recent ruling by Judge Henry Szymanski, which had paved the way for the home's construction.

Szymanski earlier had overturned a ruling by the city's Board of Zoning Appeals that had denied a variance for building the home on the property because the lot does not measure the required 100 feet in width. The parcel, which is some 130 feet deep, lacks approximately one inch from meeting the 100-foot width specification, a city official reported.

The proposed facility would be designed to house six persons, including as many as four persons confined to wheelchairs. To be constructed as barrier free, the facility would be staffed 24 hours a day and would be located on Whitney street (lot 35) in the subdivision, which encompasses some 37 lots near the intersection of Glenwood and Newburgh.

"It seems like everybody's right have been protected but the people who live there," said Nakamoto. "That site is simply not compatible for what they're trying to do. There are no sidewalks or paved streets for instance."

"The state has overridden our ordinances," he added. "And they've hurt property values in Whitney Knoll."

Hart, a former resident of Wayne, said his decision to sell the property for usage as a foster care home site has led to numerous threats and vandalism at his Canton home.

"I've had a brick thrown through my window and phone calls threatening to burn my house down," Hart revealed last week. "The first time I knew what the property was going to be used for was when the real estate agent told me that someone was offering exactly what we were asking for the lot ($20,000)."

"At that time I was told I could either sell it for what I had asked for or take it off the market," he explained. "If we had backed out and tried to sell it again, there could have been court action."

"Those people have to live somewhere. I thought the people in the subdivision would be more civilized about this."

Hart admitted that he had attempted last year to break his purchase agreement on the property without success.

Wayne administrative and City Council officials repeatedly have voiced objections in the courts and the State Legislature regarding placement of foster care homes. Municipalities have virtually been eliminated from the selection process, they have maintained.

"There are some problems involved for us in getting Judge Szymanski's decision (changed)," attorney McKinney noted, "it may be difficult for us to prevail in this matter but the zoning board made the only decision available to them."

In overturning the board's denial of the variance, Judge Szymanski had indicated his feeling that the board had made its determination in an effort to prevent the building of a foster care home. He ruled that the board had abused its discretion by its action.

During the proceedings, the attorney for the lot's owner had pointed out that a large percentage of nearby lots also are less than 100 feet in width.

Six foster care homes have been licensed in Wayne to date with another four applications pending, including the Whitney Knoll Subdivision site.

In the colonial times

When you study history it sometimes helps to understand the times by experiencing what our forefathers wear. So, pupils at Barth Elementary School got an opportunity to show off their "colonial dresses and overalls", and were assigned projects that students in those early days of the settlements were assigned, like making blackboard slate. And above is how pupils in Mrs. Sandy Heinzelman's class translated their assignment. In colonial clothing are Trina Venturini (from left), Rebecca Jackson, Keith Whitehill, Jason Manier and seated in front is Sheila Cofield. In the photo at the left are members of Charlotte Price's classroom. They are Angela Ripple (left to right), Lanise Parker, Chris Fix, Amy Phyllyss and Melissa Preis.

Baumann urges administration to reconsider CDBG proposals

Romulus Councilman Barry Baumann believes that the city administration could put the 1983

Community Development Block Grant monies to better use than what is presently proposed.

Romulus is slated to receive $120,000 in federal CDBG funds this year.

"I have a very serious problem with the administration's recommendations for the use of those funds," Baumann said. "I don't believe we should be putting $45,000 of it into clearing land for the proposed post office."

"When we were in Washington recently, officials told us that we (the city) would have nothing to say about the site selection. We can offer input, but they will eventually decide where the post office will be constructed."

Baumann, along with his council colleagues, John Lewkowicz and Peter Bergeron last week attended the annual League of Cities Conference in Washington.

Congressman William Ford (D-Taylor) informed the city earlier this year that Romulus "will definitely have its own post office."

Baumann went on to say that the $45,000 proposed to clear land for the Post Office "could be better utilized in helping organizations within the city that are trying to help our residents."

He singled out the Romulus Civic League as one of many worthwhile organizations that are "helping the needy with food and finances during these hard times."

"Also, our Little League baseball organizations have urged us to help them solve some of their financial problems — what better place to put our money than in groups that are helping our youngsters?" Baumann asked.

$2,000 reward

Police continue arson investigation

Van Buren Township Police and members of the Michigan State Police Arson Strike Force have intensified their search for suspects who set fire to a Van Buren Township home that claimed the lives of a Belleville postal employee and his invalid wife.

Police Chief Leonard Kellers said that a $2,000 reward has been posted for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a suspect or suspects involved in the homicide-arson.

The fire took the lives of Paul Vance, 49, and his wife, Frances, 47. Mrs. Vance was confined to a wheelchair. She suffered from multiple sclerosis.

The victims resided at 46670 Bemis Road and were killed when the blaze swept through their dwelling during the early morning hours on Feb. 8.

Chief Keller had pointed out that an intensive investigation by the Van Buren police, fire and the Michigan State Police Arson Investigators concluded that the fire at the Vance home was arson.

"Therefore this case is to be viewed as a homicide arson," Chief Keller said.

Anyone with any information about the fire is urged to telephone "Arson Control" (collect) at 517-322-0469 of the Van Buren Police Department at 699-2003 or 699-2550. Sources will remain confidential.

Rev. Freund to be installed as pastor

REV. KURT W. FREUND

The Rev. Kurt W. Freund will be installed as pastor of the Belleville United Presbyterian Church in ceremonies scheduled for Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Martha Mary Chapel.

"My task as an effective pastor is to develop skills to help the congregation I serve to 'breathe' in the name of Jesus Christ instead of suffocating due to lack of recognizing His presence," Rev. Freund said.

Rev. Freund sees his ability to facilitate the development of programs that help others minister as his strongest pastoral attribute. Second to his worship leadership skills, he views as a major strength his ability to work with individuals and small groups.

Rev. Freund said he tries "to be an interpreter and teacher of Christ's words and spirit to help people take seriously their role in the 'priesthood of all believers'."

Ordained in December of 1969, Rev. Freund has served in a wide capacity in church organizations and services. He was the president of the Austintown Ministerial Association (Austintown, Ohio), member of the Presbytery of Des Moines; Des Moines Area Religious Council; and also Associate in CE at University Presbyterian Church in Tempe, Arizona; St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross, California, and Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

A reception will be held in the Christian Education Building immediately following Sunday's services. The public is cordially invited. The church is located at 11900 Belleville Road.

Good Friday program

The Seven Last Words of Christ

"The Seven Last Words of Christ," Franz Josef Haydn's musical masterpiece, will be presented at Orchestra Hall on Good Friday, April 1, under the sponsorship of Renaissance Concerts, Inc. The work received such high acclaim when presented last year, it will become an annual Good Friday event.

The presentation will follow the historic pattern of its introduction in the Cathedral of Cadiz in 1786. After a brief musical interlude, the bishop pronounced one of the last words of Christ, and gave a brief reflection. Haydn's musical interpretation of the word followed.

Seven leading members of the Detroit-area clergy, representing a wide range of denominations, will share the role of "bishop" which Haydn envisioned. Music will be performed by a string quartet composed of Detroit Symphony Orchestra members. Clergy participating in this unique event are:

— The Rev. Robert H. Crilley, Pastor, Fort Street Presbyterian Church, Detroit.

— The Rev. Patrick Halfpenny, Spiritual Director, Sacred Heart Seminary, Detroit.

— The Rev. Robin Meyers, Minister, Bushnell Congregational Church, Detroit.

— The Rev. John W. Peoples, Pastor, Calvary Baptist Church, Detroit, and member of the Detroit City Council.

— The Rev. Dr. Wm. K. Quick, Senior Minister, Metropolitan United Methodist Church, Detroit.

— Sr. Carol Rittner, R.S.M., Ecumenical Institute for Jewish Christian Studies, Southfield.

— The Rev. Orris G.

Walker Jr., Rector, St. Matthew and St. Joseph Episcopal Church, Detroit.

In his letters, Haydn clearly expressed that his music was addressed to the soul. "Each Sonata, or each text," he wrote, "is so expressed, purely through instrumental music, as to produce the deepest impression in the soul of even

Letters, $4,000 pour in

Citizens rally to help ailing youth with malfunctioning heart

LaSalle Rogers, the 19-year-old Inkster youth whose time is fast running out because of a malfunctioning heart, has hope today, thanks to the generosity of local and Wayne County residents.

Since his medical problem was aired on television Tuesday night, more than 1,000 letters containing some $4,000 have been sent to the Social Services Department of Wayne County General Hospital and more are on the way said a spokesperson for the department, Robert Updike.

According to Updike, it will take a minimum of $70,000 to send the boy to the University of Virginia Medical School in Richmond for a heart transplant.

"He has been given less than a year to live," Updike explained, "as scar-tissue continues to build, slowly reducing the ability of his heart to function. The condition is called 'cardiomyopathy'."

Rogers was first told of his condition last August when he entered Wayne County General for an examination. Later released, Rogers was returned to the facility last February when it became evident his only hope to survive would be a complete heart transplant.

Coming from a family of 10 children, the youth's chances of obtaining the $70,000 operation was considered nil.

"It just became a time of waiting until the heart finally gave up," Updike said. "We thought—here at the hospital—that we might be able to attract attention to the young man's needs and perhaps help him in his quest for funds. It was gratifying to see the mail and to realize Wayne County residents, despite the ravages of unemployment, are doing their best to help."

If you would like to contribute, send your money to: Wayne County General Hospital, Social Services Department, 2345 Merriman Road, Westland, MI 48185.

There's an old Polish folk custom that calls for piercing apples with iron nails, keeping them overnight, and eating the iron-fortified apples in the morning. Researchers, testing the result, say it's a good, safe source of iron, as long as the nails are not galvanized. (The easier way: cook applesauce in an iron pot.)

For best results, bring all ingredients to room temperature before you bake a cake. (But eggs SEPARATE best when cold.)

The best rhubarb is firm and crisp, with brightly colored stalks. The most-tender younger stems have immature leaves; large stalks may be tough. Do NOT eat rhubarb leaves; they are poisonous.

"Productivity," Wheeler said, "is on the minds of the owners and managers of all organizations. Why? Because most organizations are facing their most severe challenge in recent history; that is survival."

Wheeler pointed out that much of the profit of a company is tied directly to efficient operations and productivity. More and more

Guiltless dessert — fruit rosettes

If you yearn for something richly satisfying and deliciously sweet, but want to watch sugar intake, try this sumptuous dessert. You can indulge with these Crispy Fruit Rosettes without feeling guilty at all because they have very little added sugar.

How can a dish so rich be so low in added sugar? The secret is in the natural sweetness of the key ingredient — plump, California prunes. Alone or combined with other naturally sweet foods, prunes lend a plum-good flavor that will fool even the sweetest of sweet tooths.

A dessert elegant enough for company, Crispy Fruit Rosettes are surprisingly easy to prepare. Simply fill ready-made phyllo dough with a delectable combination of prunes, apples, honey and cinnamon. A blender or food processor minimizes preparation time.

With their naturally sweet flavor, chewy texture and year 'round availability, California prunes enhance a variety of dishes. In the morning, try adding prunes to cereal for an extra burst of flavor. With their good supply of vitamins A, B and iron, prunes also make a hard-to-beat nutritious snack. And with the added convenience of pitted prunes, you can enjoy prunes straight from the box any time of day.

Crispy Fruit Rosettes

- 1 cup (about 6 ounces) pitted prunes
- 6 tablespoons apple juice
- 2 cups finely chopped peeled and cored apples
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 6 phyllo dough sheets (about 1/4 pound)
- 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
- Powdered sugar

In container of electric blender or food processor fitted with steel blade, combine prunes and apple juice. Blend until almost smooth, turning machine on and off and scraping sides of container as needed. Remove prune mixture to bowl. Mix in apples, walnuts, honey and cinnamon to blend thoroughly; set aside. Cut phyllo sheets into quarters to form rectangles about 6x8-inches. Stack rectangles and cover with plastic wrap. (Rewrap and refrigerate or freeze phyllo dough remaining from package.)

Brush insides of six, 6-ounce custard cups or ramekins with butter. Brush one rectangle of phyllo dough with butter. Gently fit into one of the custard cups, buttered side up, allowing ends to extend over the edge. Repeat with another rectangle, crossing the first one. Repeat with two more rectangles, using four in all. Fill with a generous 1/2 cup of the prune mixture. Gather phyllo ends inward to cover filling and form a rosette; brush lightly with butter. Repeat with remaining phyllo rectangles, prune mixture and butter.

Meanwhile, heat oven to 350 degrees and place a baking sheet on rack in lower third of oven. Place custard cups, spaced apart, on baking sheet. Bake 40 to 45 minutes until evenly browned. If necessary, cover loosely with foil to prevent tops from overbrowning. Remove from baking sheet; cool on rack. Loosen with knife and gently turn out of custard cups. Dust with powdered sugar. Serve warm or at room temperature. Makes 6 servings.

By Lee Smith
Suburban Living Editor

Although I regularly catch "60 Minutes" and "20/20" on television, I always wonder at their conclusions what good they've done. They inevitably stir up a hornet's nest, leaving at least one viewer riled (me) but rarely, if ever, follow up with any results of their revelations.

With that idea in mind, I've written the following letters and notes which I'd love to send had I any idea they'd do one bit of good.

TO THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND:

Dear Liz: The first question I'd like to ask you is, what hold, what power, your official dress designer has on you? Is he a Svengali of sorts with hypnotic persuasion? Or is he to be likened to the crafty weaver of the "finest gold cloth" who convinced the ruler (in the whimsical but "revealing" story, "The Emperor's New Clothes") that his way was the best?

How can you not be aware of what this man is doing to you? For your recent visit to our country, you were outfitted outlandishly and came across looking like the worst sort of hausfrau. That reverse print coat-hat ensemble, for instance, was ghastly! It appeared you were wrapped in a flag!

And that overly done evening gown with its cutesy-cutesy bows at the shoulder and all the other embellishments looked worse than something I might have stitched (and I can't sew!)

And, oh my dear, that gawdawful bulky pocketbook! I can't even be kind enough to call it a handbag. Why, if you must carry a purse, does it have to be such a matronly, dowdy one? Why not a simple little clutch? Although if I had a lady-in-waiting, you can bet she'd be toting the cumbersome, ugly thing.

As one of the world's wealthiest women with the top-of-the-line designers to call upon, I'm embarrassed to say, your Queenliness, that you came across as an awful frump!

TO AGEE AND CUNNINGHAM, INC.

Dear Bill and Mary: Enough is enough is enough! One more news release, one more denial or concurrence on the "two of you" and I'm gonna gag!

TO MOTHER NATURE:

Dear Ma: It's not nice to fool your children either!

TO PRINCE CHARLES AND LADY DIANA:

Dear Chuck and Di: Why don't you just fire the whole darn lot of those tongue-wagging, eager-to-make-a-pound valets, footmen, chambermaids and the like and start anew. Like, for instance, a staff of robots who'd see, hear or speak no evil.

TO POPE JOHN PAUL:

Your Holiness: You're making me extremely nervous with your visits to all the little "hot spots" on the globe. Please, give us some peace of mind and just stay home for awhile. I often forget that I'm not seeing you live and I'm forever bracing for that itchy-fingered idiot in the crowd to take a pot-shot at you.

TO LINDA EVANS, c/o Dynasty:

Dear Linda: Hey, thanks for making "over-40" beautiful!

TO THE M*A*S*H CAST:

Dear 407th-ers: Mondays're just not going to be the same. We spent a lot of time together and we're going to miss you at our house.

TO GOLDIE HAWN:

Dear Goldie: Just caught your latest flick and I gotta tell 'ya you're overdoing the eggbeater hair-do bit. It was refreshing for awhile but not for every part you play. I love 'ya, you're a cutie pie, but that "mess" has gotta go!

TO SISTER AGNES MARY MANSOUR:

Dear Sis: Vows are vows. Why the double standard for you?

TO ANNE GORSUCH BURFORD:

Dear "Lucky": Once again the Fed takes care of its own and you're off the hook. Not only were you allowed to "resign" with gold ol' buddies giving you pats on the back but there's absolutely no job shortage in D.C. it seems. How nice that there's another cozy little (overpaid) niche to compensate for all the "wrongs" done you.

TO ALL MOTHERS OF BRIDES-TO-BE:

My dear counterparts: And what are you wearing to your daughter's wedding? I think Her Royal Majesty's designer has been set loose in America's bridal salons. Ugh!

HERE'S A REAL WINNER

So you want more "good" recipes (my "fanmail" tell me.) Okay, I've a super stir-fry for you — quick, easy, fast, low-cal — which is getting to be a standard at our house. Found it in a Ford Times Cookbook and it's terrific! You don't have to have a Wok either but silverstone coating is a must; I use my large frying pan.

ALMOND CHICKEN

- 2 cups raw chicken breasts, cut up
- 4 tablespoons cooking oil
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 ozs. water chestnuts, thinly sliced and/or
- 2/3 cup diced bamboo shoots
- 2 ozs. sliced fresh mushrooms
- 2/3 cup diced celery
- 1 1/2 cups chicken stock
- 1/2 teaspoon molasses
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon Accent (MSG)
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch mixed with 1/4 cup water
- 32 whole blanched almonds, sauteed in butter.

Cut chicken into pieces 3/16 inch thick, 1/2 inch wide and 1 1/2 inches long. Saute lightly in hot oil and salt, stirring constantly. Add vegetables and saute for a minute or so. Add chicken stock, cover pan and steam for about 2 minutes until mixture is boiling. Add molasses, Accent and sugar, mixing well. Add cornstarch and water mixture, just enough to thicken the sauce. Add almonds. Serve on rice or rice noodles.

THE BOTTOM LINE: There's no future in alcohol — just ask any ice cube.

"Hammer of the Scots" by Jean Plaidy. Edward Longshanks dominated his age. He was the great ruler, strong, just, cruel when he considered it necessary, vulnerable only where his family was concerned. He emerges as one of the greatest kings England has ever known. His tragedy was that he died knowing that his work was incomplete and that the crown must pass to his dissolute son.

BIOGRAPHY
"Love, Eleanor" by Joseph Lash. The transformation of Eleanor Roosevelt from a diffident society matron into the First Lady of the world is one of this century's most affecting personal dramas. The author has found fresh insights and understanding in the treasure trove of Mrs. Roosevelt's letters to those closest to her.

"Righteous Gentile: Raoul Wallenberg" by John Bierman. In this stirring biography, the author vividly recounts the triumph and subsequent tragedy of a man who has been called the greatest unsung hero of World War II — a man who risked his life daily as he provided the Swedish passports that made escape possible for thousands.

Peter Sellers was one of the great comic geniuses of the screen. Drawing on the experiences of his family, the author paints a vivid portrait of the vulnerable, troubled man behind the jovial public figure.

One of the ways you may express tension is by clenching or grinding your teeth. This is called bruxing. Many people do it at night when they sleep. This may include biting your cheek or lip unconsciously. Normally, it will heal in a few days if you don't keep chewing on that area.

BPW selects Eleanor Kostecki as Young Careerist for 1983

The highlight of the March 7 meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) was the appearance of two Young Careerist candidates. Eleanor Kostecki, social worker for Out-Wayne County Head Start, and Ann Hittler, manager of the Visitors and Convention Bureau of the Ypsilanti Area Chamber of Commerce, both outstanding young women, gave brief resumes of themselves including their accomplishments and their aspirations.

Two BPW members from other districts, Marge Heiser of Ypsilanti and Pat Gresock of Canton, judged the competition and chose Ms. Kostecki as representative for the District XIII Young Career Woman competition on April 13.

Ms. Kostecki, along with Virginia Melcher, Director of September Days Seniors of Van Buren Township, were later installed as new members of the club.

Five guests were also welcomed to the meeting: Sandy Butler and Judy Taylor, teachers Head Start, Quirk School; Peggy Cranham, secretary, Inter-City Electric, Inc.; Linda Dicks, secretary, cashier's office Eastern Michigan University, and Sue Brooks, secretary, UAW Local 735.

Sophie Zoller, vice-president, conducted the business session which included a report on the fashion show to be held March 26 at the Tin Lizzie Restaurant. Margarine White and Connie Sotelton are co-chairmen of the event.

District XIII meeting will be held April 13 at the Epicurean House in Trenton and members are to make reservations by March 22. The group was also urged to attend Legislative Drive-In in Lansing on April 26 when Lt. Gov. Martha Griffiths will speak and lunch with state legislators will take place.

A report on the BPW's attendance at International Night in Windsor on its 50th anniversary was given. Midge Artley, Georgia Badgett, Irene Christie, Ann Pavelka and Sophie Zoller represented the Belleville club and watched as the Michigan Federation presented a bell to the Canadian Federation in honor of this celebration.

Deborah Burek, the club's scholarship winner for 1980, has been awarded the Macabees Mutual Insurance Company Scholarship. A junior at Madonna College, she is majoring in journalism and public relations.

Two upcoming events are the spring rummage sale on April 23 and the April meeting, which will be a closed session with the Public Relations Committee in charge.

Any working woman who would like to attend a BPW meeting is asked to call 697-7292 for further information.

Those group homes won't go away

Is there a township or a city that hasn't been confronted recently with the "problem" of group homes? We believe not. Most, however, accept the placement, although reluctantly, without controversy and without threats of lawsuits.

Homeowners fear group homes for a wide range of reasons... most of them irrational. They argue that property values will decrease; they fear for their children; they fear that the retarded may cause fire or damage and some even go as far as to say that they fear sexual assaults.

These fears — when you're talking about the retarded — are irrational — and unfounded.

Most people who have attended public hearings when an applicant seeks approval for group home attend the meetings to protest. There have been many, many shouting matches and usually when all the shouting and arguing subsides, the courts get the case.

And, the courts, thus far, have ruled in favor of the group homes. It is becoming increasingly apparent that there is a showdown in the near future but, one thing is for sure, dissolving the community placement programs and sending the retarded back to the institutions is not the answer.

For centuries that's how the retarded have been "treated". Although some group homes have had their problems because those in charge have exploited their near-helpless inhabitants, there are hundreds of other homes — literally hundreds — which have escaped notoriety because the personnel have been doing the job.

It is unfortunate those placement homes do not get the publicity of others which, for one reason or another, become controversial. There has always been a fascinating dislike for those who are not the same as we are. Nonetheless, each and every one of us — no matter what the color of skin, race, natural origin and intelligence, has a right to our little corner.

If one doesn't violate someone else's rights, isn't he entitled to the same consideration? Does being retarded violate someone else's rights?

We believe that any person — every person — has a right to a decent life as long as he can live in peace with his surroundings and his environment.

An if the retarded are willing, why aren't their neighbors?

A child's print

The Hulsing School Parent-Teacher Organization in Canton has launched a campaign that is considered a first in the area, if not the state — they are fingerprinting small children as a safety measure so that if the child is abducted the fingerprints would allow police to identify the child.

Understandably, these parents are concerned. The newspapers daily carry stories of children being abducted, disappearing or missing. Fingerprints would help identify the victim.

Although we believe that the fingerprinting process is an excellent tool to help in any investigation, we also believe that a pound of prevention is worth the proverbial pound of cure.

Parents should continually drive home the point that children must not go with strangers; they should not be left alone; that their whereabouts should be known by parents all of the time.

As worthwhile as the fingerprinting program sounds, when tragedy strikes it is often too late. The times call for parents to be "on guard" more than ever.

Marriage, in style

They say marriage American-style doesn't last, but if you ask some 28 couples at Willow Creek Apartments in Westland, they would just laugh at you.

For, you see, these 28 have managed to survive 50 or more years of marriage, and all of them agree: "They love it."

So the next time you read those statistics about marriage fatalities, and how people just don't stay married anymore, think of these couples:

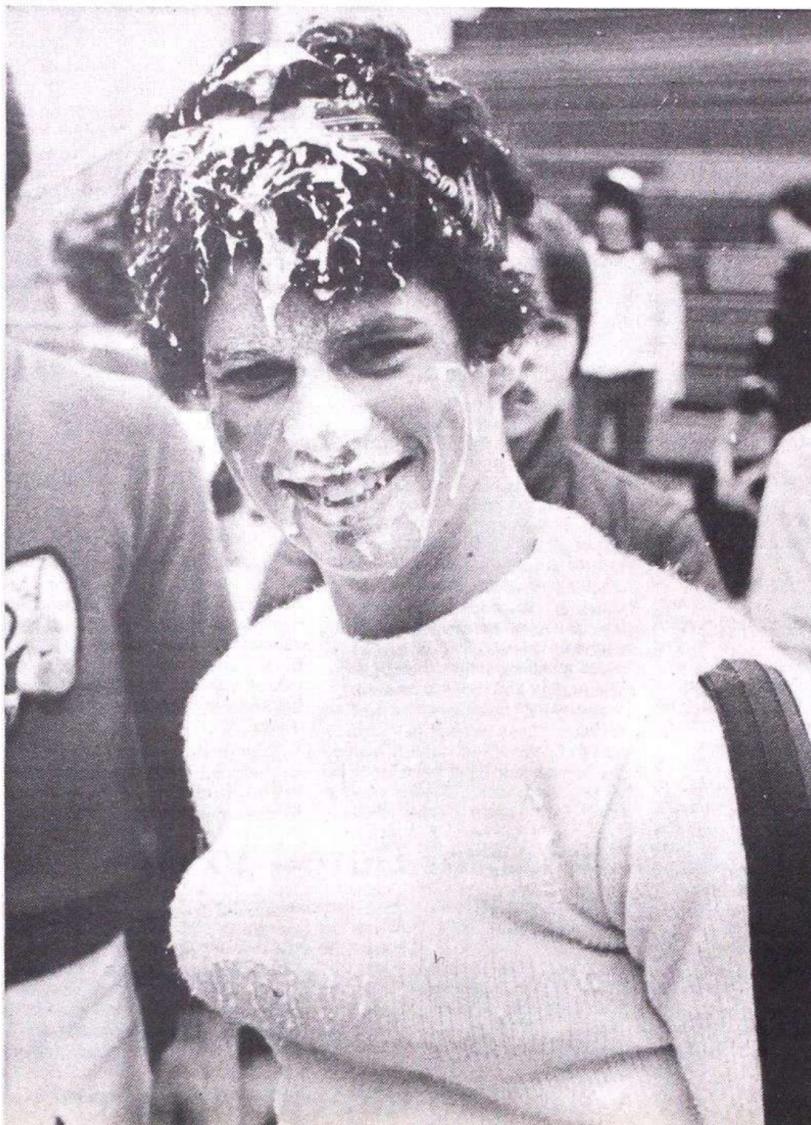

Henry and Edith Riopelle, married 64 years; Levi and Ann Bartlett, married 60 years; Delbert and Katherine Rigby, married 59 years; Ernest and Laura Anderson, 59 years; Wesley and Mildred Matthew, 59 years; John and Ethel Horwath, 58 years; William and Catherine Harvey, 58 years; and William and Frieda Dickerson, 58 years.

Also Frank and Vesta Burr, married 58 years; William and Alice Guerin, 58 years; Thomas and Mary Regan, 57 years; Clarence and Helen Dunneback, 57 years; Charles and Alta Enlow, 57 years; Joe and Margaret Blanchard, 57 years; Al and Violet Cox, 56 years; Harley and Josephine Brooks, 56 years; Walter and Sophia Furrage, 55 years; Ralph and Irene Fuller, 55 years; and Harold and Edith Neil, 54 years.

William and May Ferkle, 54 years; Harvey and Irene Raymond, 54 years; Hubert and Thelma McPherson, 54 years; Carl and Clara Moyer, 52 years; Kui Yee and Hui Wang, 52 years; William and Lovella Hardin, 52 years; Joseph and Theresa Zanardi, 51 years; David and Violet Yearkey, 51 years; and Clement and Jessie Martzoff, 50 years.

Misconceptions about nuclear fallout

Michael Gramlich's letter (Mar. 3) supporting the nuclear freeze included the freeze movement's usual trademark — misleading and false information. He asserts without basis that fallout from an H-bomb strike on the Monroe nuclear plant would "get" millions in this area (presumably he means "kill").

Actually fallout is most unpredictable, since it depends on many variables (burst height, weapon yield, weather, etc.).

One thing is clear: fallout goes downwind, i.e., normally eastward, so fallout from Monroe would threaten other areas more than Detroit.

Little such fallout is likely, because Detroit-area targets are suitable for air-burst attack — and air burst produce little fallout. A deliberate ground burst on the nuclear plant might produce dangerous fallout; but it is sheer speculation to assume such an attack would occur, much less crack the plant open and spread nuclear materials (even H-bombs can miss).

Even if fallout occurs, it is not certain that it would kill many people. Fallout is dangerous, but it is not the doomsday effect people think it is.

In 1954, 23 Japanese sailors were deluged with fallout from an H-bomb test. Making no effort to wash it off, they suffered radiation sickness but only one died. Two died years later of cancer (perhaps related). The rest are still alive almost 30 years later. Anyway, there are effective defenses against fallout, if only people will study and prepare for it instead of panicking.

Gramlich's remarks on a 20-megaton attack are even more off the mark. A 20-megaton blast at the Ren Cen would do little damage in most parts of Westland, Garden City, Livonia or Plymouth. He implies a 20-megaton blast is vastly bigger than a one-megaton blast.

In fact, a 20-megaton blast has a destructive radius only about two-and-a-half times as big as one megaton. It's simple geometry. Megatonnage measures total energy released in all directions (like the volume of a sphere). But people live only on the circular cross-section of the sphere. And the radius of that circle is proportional to the cube root of the volume (megatonnage), not to the volume itself. Since the cube root of 20 (ratio of the two weapons he postulates) is about 2.7, then 20 megatons would cause damage up to 2.7 times as far out as one megaton — not enough to destroy the western suburbs.

A 20-megatonner will do only minor blast damage beyond about 16-18 miles from ground zero, which is about how far the eastern parts of those suburbs are from the Ren Cen. Exposed skin can suffer serious burns out to about 34 miles and a "sunburn" somewhat further. But any shelter, even clothing, will provide good or complete protection. At Nagasaki, people in caves survived one-third mile from ground zero. At Hiroshima, the survival rate 1.6-3.1 miles away was 98 percent, though most people took little protective action. Using the cube root rule, we find a 20-megatonner has a destructive radius about 10 times as great as the 20-kiloton bombs used on Japan. Thus, sheltered people could survive as close as three or four miles from ground zero, and the 98 percent survival circle would be about 16 miles away — again the eastern edge of the suburbs Gramlich named.)

Since the Russians — unlike Gramlich — know how H-bombs work, they probably would not use a 20-megatonner here. Such warheads are useful mainly against very hard underground targets. Detroit would probably be hit by several much smaller weapons, because they would do more damage than a big one.

Obviously, nuclear war would be horribly destructive, and we must do all we can to avoid one. But the freeze movement's utter inability to master the basic facts about nuclear arms makes a reasonable person wonder how they can be trusted to solve the problem.

After all, if they cannot understand simple facts, how can they grasp the complexities of strategy and peacemaking?

Indeed, they have not, and the freeze proposal's wording proves it. This sloppy document would destroy our nuclear defenses — not merely freeze them — and cripple our conventional forces, too.

A useful, workable nuclear freeze may be possible, but these people are not competent to devise it.

Meanwhile, they are causing a panic that may succeed in both disarming the U.S. and tempting the Soviets to attack. In short, they may start war instead of preventing one.

Gramlich provided a phone number for people wanting more information on the freeze. Citizens who want to hear both sides may want to know that one organization is explaining the flaws in the freeze idea. It is Chapter 16, Reserve Officers Association. Groups interested in hearing the chapter's presentation may call me at 728-2863, evenings.

Headhunters on the loose ... again

Tom Mooradian
Managing Editor

Someone wants Van Buren Police Chief Leonard Keller's head. And it isn't Scheherazade.

Chief Keller was the main topic of an anonymous letter that painted him in a very depressing picture. The letter was, of course, unsigned.

After all, who wants to take on a police chief? Any police chief.

But, then, police chiefs are human, despite evidence to the contrary.

The letterwriter put into print that the police chief played favoritism among his force, "fixed" tickets and even had the inside track on the job because he knew people on the staff who were charged with the job of replacing the former police chief.

You see police chiefs don't — and let me say police commanders, too — last around these parts.

"I would laugh at these things they say in the letter if they weren't so downright libelous," the chief said in a telephone interview yesterday. "I know I have stepped on some toes here, but I have a job to do and most of the more mature officers on the force realize this.

"I've taken disciplinary action and some are disgruntled by it," Chief Keller added.

Keller explained the so-called "ticket fixing" incident.

Like the sociological exercise some professors will try in a classroom where 10 or more people will line up and you whisper a word or a color to the first and he relays it on to the next, when it comes to the final person in line the word becomes a hybrid of the original.

Treasurer Donna Hall picks up the story from here.

"It seems that someone didn't get his or her facts straight," Mrs. Hall said. "I was stopped by one of our police officers and he apparently didn't know that I was an employee. He asked for my driver's license and I gave it to him.

"The officer issued me a ticket and I accepted it," Mrs. Hall continued. "Because I'm an elected officer doesn't mean that I can violate any law. I paid that ticket and I can produce my cancelled check to prove it."

Back to Chief Keller. "I called the officer into the room and asked him what had happened," Keller said. "He told me he had stopped the driver of the vehicle, asked for her license and ticketed her. And that's all there was.

"And I told him — he did his job, and that's all I want him or any other member of my force to do."

To clear the air, Chief Keller had asked for a special meeting with members of the township board of trustees. They huddled for approximately 45 minutes and when they broke, George Craven, Township supervisor, is quoted as saying:

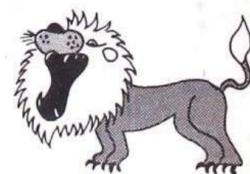

"I'm satisfied that the allegations are unfounded. This was an obvious attempt at character assassination."

We received the unsigned letter, too.

We hook shot it into our nearest basket. And that's what happens to all unsigned letters here.

'Tax junky' column great

EDITOR — Let me congratulate Managing Editor Tom Mooradian for his column, "Our Tax Junkies in Lansing".

In the past I have ready many, many articles he has written, but this one hit the nail right on the head. It was an excellent piece of journalism.

Mr. Mooradian asked a lot of questions but I know none could be answered honestly by any of the politicians mentioned.

It seems to me the politicians are in vogue by becoming anti-tax crusaders until they get elected.

What surprised me most is that our neo-representative Justine Barns from District 38 jumped on the bandwagon and voted for the 38 percent hike. How soon she forgot that there are 5000 unemployed families in the city of Westland.

How soon she forgot that we have "operation Bread basket" going on for the needy.

How in the world can these people pay a 38% tax increase, when they can't even meet their next mortgage payments?

So no matter how dire our financial straits, our governor and state legislators always find a way to raise their salaries, and our taxes.

Once again, congratulations.

Raise taxes - that's no solution

EDITOR — I wish to applaud Mr. Mooradian's most recent column, "Our Tax Junkies in Lansing" which appeared in the March 9-10 edition of the Associated Newspapers.

I believe the time is past due for citizens to question the abilities and decisions of our so-called leaders.

Government is not in the position of having too little income; it is in the position of spending too much and spending over half of its income on the wrong things.

Even this rich nation cannot take $350 billion annually from the productive revenue base and waste the money through welfare statism. It is the bevy of social programs that must be eliminated to allow a return to solvency.

The House of Representatives will not be striving to reduce spending and stabilize a deficit laden economy.

The idea of welfare entitlements is accepted almost without question. A condition arising because recipients have no intention of working if a public dole is available or they believe no probable job exists for them.

The House of Representatives has become a "say yes to Governor Blanchard" who exhibits the simple, antiquated non-progressive type thinking — "RAISE TAXES" — which continues to allow the working 40% of the population support 60% of the population with some type or form of government aid.

Truly the future is in our own hands. If citizens will take the time to communicate with their representatives to study the issues which confront us and to take part in elections, then they can change things for the better.

I have personally written on various occasions for comments to:

1. Representative William Ford — Always answers letters.
2. Senator William Faust — Never answers.
3. Representative Gary Owen — Never answers.
4. Representative Edward Mahalak — Personally met, over coffee, never answers letters.

Where is area scouting news?

EDITOR — I am writing in regards to the lack of scouting articles in the Associated Newspapers.

I have been in scouting a number of years.

When I first started the boys were achieving very little, so I decided I would write articles naming the boys and their awards hoping this would be a source of encouragement to them.

It, in fact, did just what I had hoped it would do. Your paper has been very cooperative over the years. Lately though, none of our articles have been printed, the last one being October 1982.

Our pack consists of boys from about 50 families in the Wayne area.

These families weren't subscribers until the scout articles began to appear. One of our scout representatives came into your office Friday to inquire as to why the articles were no longer appearing.

She was told these types of articles are only printed when the paper has space to fill. Could you please consider adding another page to your paper specifically for scouting?

The youth of the community could certainly benefit from more positive statements in their behalf. I would appreciate any consideration you might give to my suggestions.

'Literacy' story was very helpful

EDITOR — The members of the Western Wayne County Literacy Council wish to thank you for the article that appeared in your January 27, 1983 edition.

The article was well written and helped bring to the public's attention the problem of illiteracy and what is being done to stamp it out.

As a result of the article we have received many calls from every community your paper serves. We are still getting calls from people who want to learn how to read and from people who want to become volunteer tutors.

Thank you once again for helping inform the community of this national tragedy.

EDITOR — On behalf of the Canton Seniors Kitchen Band, we'd like to thank the Associated Newspapers for the terrific article in the February 17 issue of the Canton Eagle.

It would have been quite a treat if you could have seen their faces light up when they read it. The band members are very proud of what they do and as you know, they volunteer their time so an article like this really makes them feel good.

We also thank you for delivering the original photos. You have been so gracious and we appreciate it.

ANP reader wants more local news

EDITOR — When we want to know about our neighbor's latest party or what's going on at Jake's Lounge we read the Wayne Eagle. What are we supposed to read if we want to know what happened at a School Board hearing about closing Washington School? Granted this school is in Westland (on the border) but it serves many children in Wayne.

If you're worried about circulation numbers why don't you ask the men or women on the street if they read the Associated Newspapers?

What we really need is more local coverage, not just city council minutes and local gossip. We need more coverage of Wayne Memorial High School. If I want to read about Westland, Romulus, Belleville, etc. then I'll buy their editions of your paper.

Don't check the 'tax' box, either

EDITOR — In Mona Grigg's article "Whose Dollar Is It, Anyway?" she states that when she checks the box on her income tax return for the general campaign fund that it does not affect her income tax return.

Although technically she is correct, this action on her part substantially affects her return, my return and all other returns in future years.

If every federal income tax payer checked this box, between 70 and 140 million dollars would go into the general campaign fund every year to further entrench the two major political parties in this country. In 1980 the Republicans and Democrats received a total of $95 million. At the state level this sum would amount to another $3 to $7 million per year.

This money would normally go into other budgeted areas reducing the state and federal budget deficit by equivalent amounts. Instead it is used by major party candidates competing for your vote and either our taxes would have to increase to make up for it or the government must expand the money supply to cover these deficits.

If you are satisfied with the policies of the two major parties, continue to advise your readers to check these boxes, thus driving up the budget deficits with long winded expensive campaigns. If you are not satisfied, but would still like to contribute to political campaigns, suggest to your readers that they get more bang for their bucks and contribute directly to the candidate or political party of their choice.

Universe greets a new babe

Hemet, Calif... The breezes were setting the branches of the Palm Trees in gentle motion, the soft rays of the sun were dancing off the flowers, and I was leaning back in the lawn chair thinking of home.

I was thinking of my boy who flies through the skies nightly, and I was thinking of his wife, sitting home, feeling the kick of her baby about to be born, and dreaming of holding that little one in my arms, when the telephone rang.

Over the wires came the happy, joyous sounds of my son.

"He's here, mom, our Gregory Lars is here!"

The lump in my throat rose higher, and tears came to my eyes, while joy sang in my heart.

Another grandson! The seventh grandson to come to us, each one taking his special place in our hearts, as if he had been there forever.

Gregory Lars! What a beautiful name.

"He has round blue eyes," his daddy was telling us, "and a little pug nose."

After we had hung up I went back out onto the patio, and leaned back in my chair, looked up at Mt. San Jacinto, and thought about the awesome things of this world, and the miracles that happen to us.

And although that mountain is awesome, and its beauty thrills my soul, and though I really feel I am in the 'foothills of heaven' in this valley, still that overwhelming awe and joy can not compare to the sense of awe I feel in welcoming my seventh grandson into this world.

What wonders will await him? I bow my head and pray that the glories of this universe will open up for this precious baby, and he will find that special place in God's plan that has already been carved out, especially for him.

May his heart be filled with abundant love, and may his soul be filled with compassion for all of those who are less fortunate than him. May he walk through this world with his arms-outstretched, touching the world with happiness, and may his mind be one which reaches out for knowledge, and may he ask questions and seek answers, and come back to those who love him on the wings of joy.

This your grandmother wishes for you, wee Gregory Lars, son of my son and child of love.

question card in half and looked at the mayor, saying, "No, I'm not going to ask it. You can't answer it, anyway."

Wait a minute! Is that any way to talk to the mayor? And who's meeting is this, anyway? The mayor's or the president of the Jaycees?

Correct me if I'm wrong (and I may very well be — just as I was wrong when I thought a "Town Hall meeting" was the same as a "Town meeting"), but don't the moderator's duties begin and end with introducing people, asking the questions (the real questions, not interpretations), and recognizing those people in the audience with their hands raised?

And if the mayor did, in fact, want people to feel they can be heard at city hall, shouldn't he have allowed "political" questions, no matter how painful, if for no other reason than to simply put those matters to rest?

And shouldn't the two council members in the audience have been invited to sit at the head table with the rest of the administrators?

What is a Town Hall meeting?

Last night (I'm writing this last Friday) I went to Westland's first Town Hall meeting.

I went there thinking I knew what a Town Hall meeting was.

I thought it was like a "Town meeting", which, my encyclopedia says, is "a meeting held once a year by the voters of a town. Such a meeting is the purest form of democratic government known, because it is government by the people rather than by their elected representatives. All citizens are free to attend the meetings and express their opinions..."

Last night's meeting (which, I understand, will be held as often as people want it) was not "government by the people". It was government by the Mayor and the President of the Jaycees.

Mayor Charles Pickering, in announcing the meeting, stressed that he wanted to avoid "political rhetoric". It was announced that the questions would be "screened" to avoid duplication and to weed out those that were "political in nature".

But then the Mayor also said, "If we only discuss what the administration wants to discuss, then this will last for only one meeting...I want to give the citizens the feeling they can be heard at city hall."

The first portion of the meeting was fine. Joe Benyo showed the slide-sound presentation he put together for the city's use in attempting to draw in new businesses.

The mayor presented graphs explaining where our money goes and why the city was forced to make cutbacks.

Dale Farland, the city's planner and cable TV coordinator, explained the cable situation to us and told us the first hook-ups would be sometime between April and September, 1984.

Then came the question-and-answer portion. The part of the program where the citizens could participate.

The moderator and chief screener-of-questions was Al Allen, Westland Jaycee President. He, and he alone, decided which questions should be answered. He edited and reworded some of the questions, and even translated some of them ("In other words..."), though I don't know how he knew, any more than the rest of us, what the questioner meant.

He also answered some of the questions ("Here, let me field that one...I can answer that one...").

Mayor Pickering, to his credit, waited patiently (too patiently, maybe) while Mr. Allen answered questions clearly addressed to the city administrators, and then he (the Mayor) answered in his own way the very same questions.

And, to the mayor's credit, when he was finally allowed to answer a question — lauded though it might have been — he answered it as candidly as events of the moment allowed.

For example, on the question of who is now running the Parks and Recreation Department, he said that he guessed he was (A response he knew was bound to rile a lot of people who figure the reason he "got rid of" Ralph Tack was that he's always wanted to be the Parks and Rec Director.)

Mayor Pickering also said that the city clearly can't get along without a Parks and Rec. Director and that he would name one within a few months, although he wasn't "at liberty" to say who that will be.

Then, finally, Mr. Allen asked — or started to ask — the final question: "I shouldn't even ask this one, because it is political — very political. Well...all right...and here I draw a blank — I don't remember the half-a-question he started to ask)."

Suddenly he stopped, tore the

Seniors' gardening club rivals California group as nation's largest

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

There's plenty of growing going on at Wayne County General Hospital-Eloise's former farm, but the food being grown there isn't for use at the hospital, but rather by industrious senior citizens in Wayne County.

The gardening is being done by the Senior Citizen Gardening Club of Wayne County, and after nine years of success, it probably is the best kept secret in the county. In fact, it has been so successful that it ranks second in the national in size, outdone by one larger in California.

That, however, may change this spring, according to club president Les Kanack. Plans call for more acreage to be plowed and more 50- by 50-foot plots made available to seniors, bringing the total to 345 plots covering more than 15 acres.

The program got its start in the spring of 1974 when eight acres of the former hospital farm were turned over for planting by interested seniors. Leonard Kraudelt of Westland and his daughter did the plowing, and while they felt more work was needed, eager gardeners overruled them and got their seeds and plants in as soon as the growing season permitted.

In nine years the program has grown to cover 15 acres and provide 345 50-by 50-foot garden plots for senior citizens in the county.

Operating through the Wayne County Office on Aging, the Seniors have since formed the gardening club, which through its $8 membership dues, is able to pay for the yearly plowing, extend the water source further into the field and provide portable lavatories on site in the summer.

Want to plant trees?

A low-cost program for landowners in Wayne County wishing to prevent soil erosion by planting trees will be available again this year.

The sale is sponsored by the Wayne County Soil Conservation District and the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

Featured in the sale are more than 200,000

(2-year) rooted seedlings. The list of seedlings available this year, which must be purchased in lots of 50, include Red, Scotch and Austrian Pine; White, Norway and Blue Spruce, Douglas Fir, Black Walnut, Hybrid Poplar, Autumn Olive and a wild-life packet.

Orders and payments must be made in advance. Pick-up of seedlings will be on Saturday, April 30, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Wayne County Extension and Education Center at 5454 Venoy Road, Wayne.

Order blanks and further information may be obtained by calling Evelyn Watts at the Wayne County Soil Conservation District Office at 721-6550, ext. 232.

Through the generosity of Frank's Nursery, the club has plenty of free seeds — about 5,000 packets — to give seniors and by using three greenhouses on the site, club members are able to grow plenty of tomato and pepper plants, also provided free of charge.

A majority of the club members live within a five-mile radius of the farm, located along the southside of Michigan Avenue between Merriman and Henry Ruff roads, although some seniors come out from Detroit to tend their plots.

The farm soil requires little fertilizing, and the results are pleasing not only to the seniors, but also to those who benefit from their generosity, like participants in the Waldorf Institute of Organic Gardening seminar. The national meeting, held in Detroit last year, included a tour of the seniors' gardens and there were plenty of fresh vegetables for the visitors to take with them.

The greenhouses are available to club members year-round and have proven to be a source of income for the club. House plants, many propagated from donations, are sold at nominal prices and flowering plants are sold at Christmas and Easter to raise money.

The money has helped extend water hose connections further into the field, opening up even more land for planting, as well as put a new roof on one of the greenhouses.

Plans also include a vegetable stand along Merriman Road this summer, so excess vegetables can be sold to boost club coffers.

The program has grown over the past three years, more by word of mouth than publicity, and mostly due to the state's poor economy.

According to Kanack, one club member's effort kept her family fed during the winter. Another was able to share what couldn't be used with the elderly residents of Wayne Villa in Wayne.

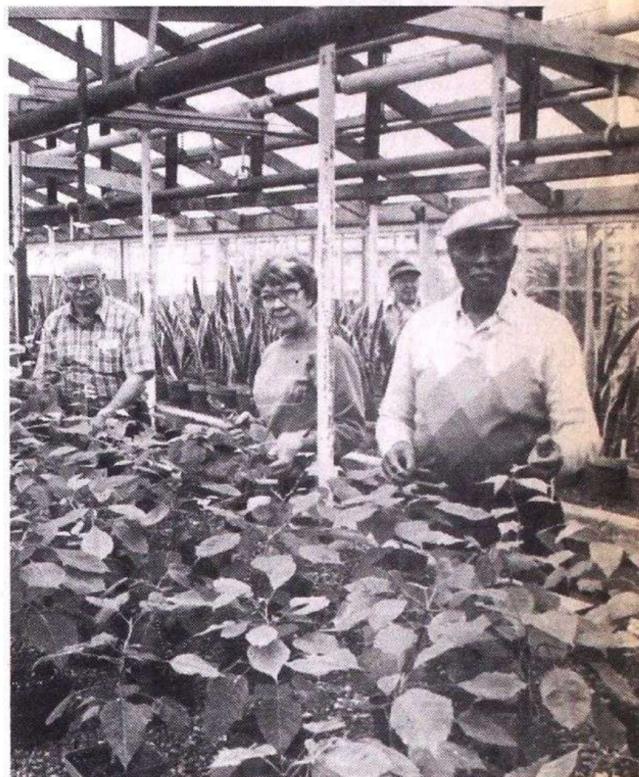

"This a good example of seniors helping seniors," he said. "We have some really nice seniors helping, providing for each other."

There is no funding from state or federal agencies for the program, which adds to its success story. It is pure and simple a senior-run project for seniors.

The club puts out a monthly newsletter to let seniors know what has been accomplished and what's being done to make things better at the gardening site, things like acquiring two donated rototillers and contributing $1,000 for the greenhouse roof, as well as financing another $750 for repairs.

At present about five applications a day for garden plots are being received by the program. It is open to Wayne County residents 55 years and older, and applications can be completed at the Senior Center in J Building of the old Eloise complex, or at the greenhouse.

And while applications are being accepted, so are donations of flower pots and empty plant flats that can be used to grow houseplants and vegetable plants for the seniors.

There's plenty to do indoors during the winter months for members of the Senior Citizen Gardening Club of Wayne County at the green-house of the old Wayne County General Hospital-Eloise complex in Westland. Members can nurture their plants through the winter months, as well as tend to plants that will be sold for the benefit of the club. Tending to a Christmas crop of poinsettias were Les Lanack (from left), club president, Jean Bear and George Grant.

Crabbie Joe's

Fresh seafood offered daily in comfortable setting

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Feature Editor

Some of the finest seafood the world has to offer can be enjoyed at Crabbie Joe's, 22041 Michigan Ave. in Dearborn.

Hosts Joe and Nan Bird have spared little expense in providing a fresh and diversified seafood menu that rivals any found in the more publicized restaurants along the East coast. More than 30 different varieties are featured with the fish delivered fresh each day from sites around the globe.

Ask the owner to describe some of the popular entrees and he enthusiastically obliges.

"The Columbian salmon melts in your mouth," Bird points out. "The dover sole is boned right at the table and is an absolute feast. Our broiled fish is popular as is the baked scallops in garlic butter. And the seafood chowder is exceptional.

"You won't find anything even remotely resembling frozen or packaged food here," adds Bird, who opened Crabbie Joe's in July of 1976 (a birthday celebration is being planned for early July). "We cut our own meat and prepare everything from scratch."

Diners who visit this 300-seat capacity establishment are greeted in an interesting decor of numerous hanging tiffany lamps, hardwood floors, historical photographs, bright tablecloths and wood beams. An arrangement of booths and tables lends a certain intimacy to a large dining area.

Popular contemporary music and old favorites are performed Friday and Saturday nights from 7:30 to 12:30 by Rick Morgan and Becki Fairman.

However, as Bird notes, "decor is secondary to the food." And it is that attitude which helps to explain Crabbie Joe's success—upwards of 2,000 meals served per week.

Seafood catches include lake perch ($9.75), lobster tails ($23.95), Boston scrod ($9.95), stuffed rainbow trout ($9.95), dover sole ($17.95), scallops (10.95), Alaskan king crab legs (market price), Atlantic monkfish ($10.95) and froglegs a la Roberto ($10.95).

Dinner entrees are complemented by a relish dish, choice of soup or salad, corn on the cob or potato and bread and butter. Chef

Bob Trombley prepares daily dinner specials offered at $6.95.

A healthy selection of choice steaks also are featured, ranging from the broiled filet mignon ($14.95) and New York strip ($14.75) to the pepper steak ($10.95) and prime rib ($14.95).

The appetizer section of Crabbie Joe's menu is loaded with options—buckets of steamed clams or mussels, oysters Rockefeller, shrimp cocktail and marinated herring. Desserts include strawberry shortcake, hot fudge sundae and a special homemade cheesecake.

Lunches, served from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m., feature various daily specials priced from $3.95 to $5.95. The menu ranges from a fish sandwich and a club sandwich to homemade Italian sausage and beef kabob. Cocktail hour is scheduled from 3 to 5 p.m.

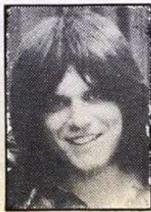

Hours are 11 a.m. until 11:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday, and 2 p.m. to 11 p.m., Sunday. Information on banquets, private parties and catering can be obtained by contacting Bird at 562-4000.

'I call that a bargain...'

PETE TOWNSHEND
"Scoop" (Ato)

This two-record set is the ultimate LP for Who fans and fanatics alike; twenty-five demo versions of songs Townshend wrote for the Who, done here completely solo. And it sure sounds refreshing!

I used to be a Who fan. But that was back when the band was still good, when they were inspiring. But their last two albums, "Face Dances" and "It's Hard" have maybe one decent song each on them. Pete's two solo LP's are far better, but not only because the songs are better, but because Roger Daltry is still holding onto that same high note he was in 1973. Yawn city.

But "Scoop" gives us such classic Who songs as "Magic Bus," "Bargain," and "Behind Blue Eyes" in their raw, pure form. Not that I don't admire Daltry's versions of these tunes—I do. It's just that I can't listen to them anymore. Even "Squeezebox" rears its ugly head here once more, but at least this version, with Pete accompanying himself on accordion, makes clear its humorous intent. "Obviously recorded for fun and as a poorly aimed dirty joke" says Townshend in the liner notes.

One thing though: with an album of this sort, aimed at the collector-diehard-fan-type, it doesn't have to be that good. After all, these are only demos and songs they threw away, aren't they? That's true enough, but the fact is that "Scoop" is the most enjoyable, thoughtfully satisfying LP put out by (ahem...) the "Who" in ten years.

One song here, "Popular," was received by the band with a luke warm reaction; he later took out the chorus and the tune became "It's Hard." The original number is by far the better.

Other highlights include "Goin' Gishin," which is Townshend's attempt at becoming the Beach Boys; a piano doodling of the standard "Tipperary"; "Melancholia," apiece originally intended for "Tommy," and many, many other songs that make "Scoop" the gem that it is.

Fairlane Assembly to present 'Alive'

Rev. Darrell Ovenshire

Fairlane Assembly of God in Dearborn Heights will be presenting the 1983 Easter production, "Alive!" It will be presented several times over the Easter weekend, under the direction of Rev. Darrell E. Ovenshire, minister of drama and promotion, in conjunction with music minister, Rev. David E. Richards.

This annual musical drama is an exciting means of communicating the truths of the Gospel, according to the Pastor of Fairlane Assembly, Rev. John Booher, who stressed that "what the eye sees, registers more permanently upon the mind than even the words which are spoken."

Rev. Ovenshire has served as minister of drama and promotion for two years after having served as director of drama voluntarily for the same amount of time. As the church has been growing rapidly during the past few years, the ministry of drama has grown in proportion and is becoming a many-faceted outreach in the community.

Pastor Darrell's dedication and talent, along with his loyalty to scripture, has affected a powerful drama ministry for Fairlane, Rev.

Booher said. He adheres to the principles of prayer and the guidance of the Holy Spirit for each individual involved in the ministry of drama.

He received his education in drama from the University of Southern California, Huntington College and Wayne State University. His wife, Carol, a talented actress, plays an important part in drama at Fairlane, as well as being secretary to Rev. John Booher.

By BEN GRIFFITH

Belleville High School has always had foreign exchange students. This year is no exception. Yumi Kajitani is from Japan. She is 16 and from the city of Shimane, near Hiroshima. Her father is a successful architect. Her mother is a housewife and her sister is a senior in high school.

Miss Kajitani is currently living with Mr. and Mrs. Art Burke in the Quirk subdivision. Here in America she has two brothers, James and Arthur, and one sister, Reda.

Her best subject is algebra. In the future, she plans to become a teacher and teach English in Japan.

Salem captures 'A' district crown

Glenn can't stop Thomann's title express

In the beginning it was Salem. And in the end, it was Salem. The pre-tournament title favorite carved out a 76-70 victory over Westland John Glenn to claim the Class A District basketball championship held at Plymouth.

"I'm really proud of my kids," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "They beat an excellent Glenn team."

The rivalry between Glenn and Plymouth Salem was never more evident than it was last Friday night as the two teams hooked up in the district final for the championship of District No. 20.

Salem prevailed but not before Glenn had "gone down swinging."

Salem and Glenn have had a good rivalry over the years. Twice, in 1976-77 and 1979-80, the Rockets have upset them when the Rocks were ranked high in the state.

Coach Dan Henry said of the loss: "We lost to a tough team on their home floor. I'm proud of our kids. They proved that they could play with anybody over the last ten days."

Salem entered the final with victories over Wayne Memorial and Northville and having amassed 20 victories in 22 games this season. They were playing their fourth game in seven days and that had Thomann concerned, "but their legs were even better than on Wednesday."

Glenn, meanwhile, entered the final having defeated Plymouth Canton on Wednesday and having posted a 14-7 record on the year, just the opposite of the year before.

Both teams were primed for this one and neither wanted to see their season end prematurely. But they both knew that they had to go at each other hard if they expected to win.

If the first quarter was any indication of how the game would be played, it was the wrong indication. Salem came out smoking as they used their strong inside game, spearheaded by Dave Houle and Matt Broderick, to force Glenn's big men — Paul Grazulis and Jack Walker — to play tight defense.

The strategy worked for Salem because soon Grazulis was forced to the bench with three quick fouls and Walker was forced to play it safe with two fouls.

"The fact that Grazulis got into foul trouble," said Thomann "made it easy for us to go inside."

With the two big men on the bench, Glenn went to scrappy Steve Jaskolski and Craig Thornton to get the defense going. But Salem repeatedly went to the hoop with Houle, "the difference in the game." He scored 10 of his team-high 22 points in the quarter and left him free to roam under the boards for some of his game-high 10 rebounds. Broderick added 7 points and Salem built a 21-12 lead at the first quarter buzzer.

However, Glenn has been on this road before and weren't about to go down without a fight. And Coach Thomann knew that.

"We told our kids three times that Glenn would make a run. Who's to say what would have happened if the game was three or four minutes longer," Thomann commented.

And come back they did.

Glenn opened the second quarter with an 11-4 spurt that had them trailing only 25-23. Greg Gill, the guard with a thousand moves and as many shots, had 6 points and Jaskolski scored four to key the surge.

But Salem quieted Glenn and their fans as Thomann used his bench to perfection. They got 7 points from them and were able to stave off the Rocket attack and widen their lead to 38-29 at halftime.

Thomann is pleased to have the depth he has, saying, "It's interesting that Glenn has size at two positions while we have size at six."

Rockets oust Canton

Getting a superb individual performance out of Paul Grazulis, who rattled the nets for 32 points, Westland John Glenn survived the semi-finals and advanced to the finals of the Class A District Tournament by ousting Plymouth Canton, 81-72.

Four years ago, former Glenn ace, Daran Armstrong, scored 32 points in a triple overtime loss to Plymouth Canton in the district championship game.

Just a little over four years later, Paul Grazulis scored 32 points against Plymouth Canton as he led the Rockets into the 1983 district finals with an 81-72 victory over the Chiefs.

Coach Dan Henry, who is in quest of his second district title as head coach of the Rockets, said, "We came out smoking. The kids know there is no tomorrow. We'll either win the game or go down swinging."

Glenn ran up a 27-12 lead in the first quarter despite getting off to a slow start in the early part of the period. Strangely enough, it wasn't Grazulis who sparked them at the beginning even though his six points helped. Rather, it was Jack Walker who probably played his best offensive game of the season, scoring 10 points in the opening stanza.

Said Henry: "It's the best he's shot all year. His desire on the boards was as good as it has been all year long."

Greg Gill, who was voted All-League last weekend, put on a dazzling display of passing as he fed his teammates for easy baskets. One of them was a double behind-the-back pass that first eluded one Canton defender, then the pass to long-time teammate Todd Jennings for the easy two.

The second quarter was an even one as Canton started hitting some of the shots they had missed in the first quarter. Mark Bennett came off the bench to score 5 points and kept the Rockets within sight. Grazulis began asserting himself on the offensive end of the floor, scoring 8 points in the quarter and ending up with 14 at the half. Coach Henry went to his bench early and often in this one to spell his starters and they held onto the 15-point advantage their teammates had given them. Craig Thornton had a good game defensively and also scored 6 points.

Glenn left the floor at halftime to an ovation from their fans. Said Henry, "The Glenn fans have been very supportive. They are so positive with their kids. They are class people."

They're No. 1

Although they were forced to wait until the final three seconds of the game when George Davis drove in for the winning lay-up, Inkster High proved Saturday night that they're No. 1 in Class B District basketball competition. Coach George Thompson's Vikings had two close calls in the districts, edging Dearborn Divine Child with a last second shot in the semi-final rounds, then escaping natural rival, Dearborn Heights Robichaud, also in the final seconds, 70-68. The team and the Viking coaching staff pose for the photographer after Saturday's thrilling victory at Robichaud. The Vikings will now compete for the regional tournament title which got underway this week.

Glenn is second at N-W swim

Although they came up with their share of honors, Westland John Glenn swam second to Northwest Suburban Conference champion, North Farmington, at the league championships held last week at Livonia Franklin.

The Westlanders finished second in six individual events as Mike Jensen set a school record in the 100-yard butterfly with his 57.6 finish. He trailed North's Brian Goin to the wire. Jensen also earned a second place ribbon for his 200-yard individual medley effort. Mark Winfrey received second place ribbons for his performances in the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-breaststroke, while Brian Pawlowicz was runner-up in the 500 and 200 yard freestyle events.

"We're a young team and have only two seniors in our line-up," said Glenn coach Larry McConnell, "so we're really looking forward to next year."

Monroe ends Belleville's cage season at Ypsilanti

It just wasn't meant to be for Coach Tom Niemi and Belleville High's Tigers.

With less than 30 seconds remaining in the game, Keith Vawters drove in and sank a basket to give the Tigers a 61-60 lead over Monroe, but the officials called a traveling violation against the Tiger cager, nullifying the basket.

That gave the ball back to Monroe which managed to hang on and win a 62-59 decision over Belleville in the semi-final round of the controversial Class A district playoffs held in Ypsilanti last week.

Ypsilanti went on to beat Monroe to capture the Class A district title. "Obviously that call against Vawters doomed us," Coach Niemi said. "It was the difference between victory and defeat. But that's life, I guess."

The loss dipped Belleville's overall record on the season to 14-6. The Tigers earlier stashed away what was the final Suburban 8 Conference basketball championship. They'll be competing in a new conference — the "Wolverine A" — a year from now.

Belleville got an early jump on the Trojans as junior Mike Mellon provided the early ammunition. The sharpshooting junior, who scored 20 points for the evening, lifted the Tigers to a 20-11 first period advantage.

But the Trojans rallied behind Dick Stringer and Daren Chappell and cut that Tiger margin by outscoring them 19-12 in the second period. Ahead 32-30 at the end of the initial half, Belleville found itself in trouble due to a rash of personal fouls. The Trojans, who finished 18 of 26 for the evening at the foul line, connected on eight of 14 charities in the second half.

Belleville didn't go to the foul line in the last two periods of their season.

Monroe outscored their rivals 18-14 in the third period and held a slim edge, 14-13, for the final period.

Mellon made 4 of 4 from the free throw line and added eight baskets for a team high of 20 points. Troy Thomas chipped in 16 points, the only other Tiger cager in double scoring figures.

Stringer finished the game with 25, the night's high and Chappell added 18.

DARNELL MORRIS

Ex-Romulus cager earns U-W honors

A former Romulus High basketball standout was named for one of the key awards presented to members of the University of Wisconsin-Stout team this season.

Darnell Morris, a senior, received the award as the best defensive player on the team.

Upsets rattle Over-30

Playoffs, loosely translated, means upsets.

And there were some upsets as the Wayne-Westland over 30 Hockey Playoffs got underway last week.

In a game that was taped by "Group W" Cable T.V., Brock Builders controlled the game against All Sorts Sports and logged a 8-1 victory.

Jim McMaster tallied for two goals and two assists; John Castellanos, Ken Howe and Bob Wood accounted for a goal and two assists; Gary Pierce and Dave Frankling rattled the net for a goal and one assist while Marv Borycki scored once.

Paul Kos picked up two assists, while Ron Swider, Bill Brown and Ernie Kelm finished with one assist.

Allsorts Sports only goal came in the final period with Tom DiLaura netting the puck on a pass from Rick Wolkowicz. This was the first game of the best two out of three.

Little Bills Trophies scored three times in the final period to secure a 5-2 win over Family Heating. Dave Zajac and Terry Johnson each tallied for a goal and an assist while Ron Jacobs, Mike McGraw and John Clearwood accounted for a goal a piece. Mark LaFond, Bill Keskey and Joel Layne received one assist in the contest.

Family Heating got on the score board as Al Pulk and Rick Rattai found the net. George Klempert, Dave Zielinski, David Jones and Jack Bockstanz drew assists.

Futurama came out skating in its game against Tasee Freeze and logged a 5-0 shutout. Ken Murray carded two goals and

'83 was a championship year for Brock's

one assist; Jim O'Gozaly tallied for one goal and an assist, while Claud Johnston and Mike Villeneuve rounded out the scoring. Bill Liedel picked up two assists while John McFaddin, Phil Cerne, Paul Briski and Don Middaugh finished with one assist.

In a game that was decided by an overtime period, Jake's Lounge advanced in the playoffs by carding a 3-2 win over Johnson's Carbonic.

Johnson's held a 2-0 lead into the third period on goals scored by Ron Johnson. Dave Fishwick, John Mendler and Terry Jobbit drew the assists.

With just 3:33 remaining in the game, Jay Middaugh scored Jake's first goal, assisted by Berry Toepfer. Only 26 seconds were on the clock when Larry Hogt tied the game which resulted in the overtime "sudden death" period.

Arnie Cox picked up the assist on Holt's goal. Just 18 seconds elapsed when Dennis LaPensee scored the game winner to advance Jake's.

In another come-from-behind victory, Mic-Dago Pub logged a 4-3 victory over Etronic.

Ten Pin Topics

Bowlers making names for selves

By JIM WRUBLEWSKI

With more and more tournaments taking place, reports are coming in to show our local area bowlers are making names for themselves all over the country.

At the Bowler's Journal Tournament in Niagara Falls, New York, Dan Emmett (a member of the faster paced leagues around this part of the world) teamed up with Al Green of Elmira, N.Y. to set an all time high in the doubles event. Dan contributed an 800 series for his share of the 1497 total that proved to be a 37 year old record breaker.

Closer to home, we have some young bowlers, from Wayne Bowl, who can hold their heads up proudly for what they have accomplished. At the Greater Detroit Youth Bowling Alliance Tournament recently, a field of over 1,400 young people took to the lanes to sample the pressures and pleasures of competitive bowling.

Out of this large field, doubles partners, Matt Morton (age 12) and Steve Summers (age 14) finished third in their division. Matt, with a 124 average, was almost 100 pins over with a 469 total and Steve was over his 114 average every game when he totalled 414.

Dennis Spikes, 10, did a great job when he took his 112 average into the singles event and placed seventh on games of 132-143-171 for a 446 total.

In regular action at Wayne Bowl, Dewey Metchell had a 651 series with games of 226 and 224; Ron Lancaster was 149 pins over his average on games of 224-211-221 for a 656 series; Barb Garlow hit 240; Mike Carter had a 215; Ed Maskelis had 216 and 201; Robert White rolled a 212; Frank Witkowski had 200 and 201; Don Simmons hit a 607 series which included an all spare game; Guy Woods was 103 pins over his average with a 586 series; and in the youth leagues, 18 year old Tony Woods moved into the lead for high single game and high series with a 214 game and 564 total.

At Town & Country Lanes Scott Turner moved into the leaders category, in the Airlines League, with a 278 game and 719 series; Jerry Boye totalled 654; Russ Wager had 672; Delores Vecchio hit 240; Don Stobb stopped one pin short of the Thursday Men's League season high when he hit 654; and Leslie Walker established a season high with a 231 game.

Bob Jaskolski celebrated his birthday with a 236 game and 656 series; Yves Szmansky had 259 for 693; Ray Lanczki hit 258-244 for 702; Don Yasko totalled 643; Butch McKina hit 614; and Mary Frowczak recorded a 167 triplicate.

Tim Detherage continued his strike throwing ways by rolling a 299 game and 769 series at Super Bowl just 3 days after hitting a 300 game and 799 series at Fiesta Lanes. It seems he has a hot hand no matter what center he is in.

Also at Super Bowl, Art Ardunowski recorded a 279 game; Jim Montry was 99 pins over his average with a 274 game; Sue Lewke paced the ladies with a 241; and Dee Zeluski was nicely monotonous when she rolled two 222 games in a row.

Lodge Lane action was led by Bob Goike Jr. with a 269 game for a 751 series followed by Geroge Fineran at 279 for 717. Toby Wright rolled a 269 game; Tom Wright hit 265; Phil Roberts had a 253; for the ladies, Judy Boone hit 255; and Marianne Prosper recorded that difficult triplicate when she had three 133 games.

The leading big shooter at Westland Bowl was Ryan Wilson on games of 236-276-257 for a 769 series. Following Ryan was Rick Farr with 247-289-227 and a 763 total; Keith Swafford had 246-215-257 for 718; Mike Lee hit 264 and 236 on his way to 711; Kelvin Barker had 276; and that venerable old man, Jay Dishong, threw 22 in a row for a 290 game and 703 total.

The youngsters were equally impressive with Ken Gabrielson, 16, 18 year age group, rolling games of 222-232-238 for a 692 and Rob Martin, 12 - 14 years old putting together games of 245-213 for a 641 total.

The Wayne-Westland Men's Bowling Association is holding its 36th Annual Men's Tournament at Wayne Bowl weekends at the end of April and through May. A projected first place team prize of $1000 is among the many prizes available to participants. Entry blanks are available at local bowling centers or from association directors. Reserved entries close Friday, April 29, 1983 so don't delay.

Salem captured 'A' district cage crown

Salem came out for the second half ready to bury Glenn. They nearly did as Houle, considered by Thomann to be "an extraordinary athlete," scored 8 points. He was helped by sharpshooting guard Glenn Medalle who added 4 points.

The Rockets stayed as close as they could with Grazulis finally able to operate underneath. That was because Houle also was in foul trouble. Grazulis scored 7 of the 13 points Glenn netted in the period. Unfortunately for the Rockets, Salem was able to maintain its lead to the end of the third period, 54-42.

Then came the fourth quarter. Thomann must have seen his season flash before his eyes. Visions of 1980 when Glenn, led by now assistant coach Wayne Woodard, defeated Salem, 68-64, or back to 1976-77 when Glenn upset them when they were ranked high in the state, must have filtered through his mind as he saw the events of the wild quarter unfold.

Gill took matters into his own hands and scored 14 points in the quarter. He had the fans thinking back to the days of Daran Armstrong when he put on a similar performance on that very floor in 1979. Mike Baydarian lit the scoreboard for 8 points on four beautiful jumpers from outside and had Thomann both shaking his head and praising him at the same time.

As a result, Glenn closed the lead to 6 and 8 points numerous times. Just when you think they were about to close the gap further, Salem would start a spurt of their own. By this time, Houle was on the bench with five fouls. But Matt Broderick, "who played an exceptional game and was all over the court," scored 11 points to finish with 20 on the night. John Cohen came off the bench to score nine points and Glenn was forced to foul to get the ball back. Salem hit 9 free throws in the period.

As it turned out, the free throws were a big difference in the game. Glenn hit 16 free throws, six less than Salem's 22, and ironically, the difference in the game itself was six.

For Glenn, it was the end of a wild 14-8 year, one their fans will definitely not forget. Gill led the Rockets and Salem in the game with 24 points. Mike Baydarian added 14.

As for Salem, with their 21-2 record all packed for their trip to Ypsilanti and the regional tournament, Henry had nothing but praise for them. "They have great depth which will carry them in this tournament. They are a solid program."

Glenn gymnasts look good at regional competitions

Although they had their problems during the regular season, Westland John Glenn gymnasts captured their share of the limelight in qualifying for Class A Regional Competitions.

Coach Jean Boliard's team qualified three — Mary Kubiak, Terri

Proffitt and Sheryl Walters — for the tournament.

Miss Walters earned a 7.5 (out of a possible 10) for her performance on the balance beam, while she was also awarded a 7.45 for her efforts in the floor exercises.

Miss Kubiak cashed in 7.5 for her performance in the vaulting to place among the top 15, and she also turned in with a 7.4 in the floor exercise competitions.

Miss Proffitt earned a 7.1 in the floor exercise event.

"This is a young and enthusiastic team," noted coach Boliard, "and I feel we will have an exciting team a year from now."

Area has one state mat champ

Plymouth Salem's John Beaudoin joined a selected high school wrestlers' club Saturday when he captured his second state championship.

The 17-year-old Salem senior retained his state crown by eking out a narrow 4-3 victory over a rugged Lansing Eastern grappler Michael Curley, to earn a first place in the 138-pound class.

Beaudoin was the only area prep to bring back a gold medal.

Wayne cashed in on the performances of Dan Matauch, Joe Colaianne and T.J. Harris to finish in a two-way tie for fifth place. But the Zebras failed to collect a gold.

The closest they got was a second place thanks to Matauch's excellent effort in the 119-pound class where the Wayne senior lost a 5-3 decision to East Kentwood's Scotty Parker, 5-3.

Colaianne finished in third place at 132 when he defeated Fraser's Dave Wittgren, 3-0, in the consolation championship round, while 105-pounder, T.J. Harris earned a fourth place medal when he defeated Warren Cousino's Mike Sulewsky, 4-2.

"I may be disappointed we didn't finish higher than we did," said Wayne Coach Don Haney, "but I'm also very proud of these boys. They did their best."

Glenn's lone medalist was 145-pounder Rob Paciocco who finished in third, while Belleville's Brock Nigg earned a fifth place at 132 and Salem's Harry Walkey earned a sixth place medal at 198.

Learning about good food

Food is the fuel that runs the human body, and pupils at Haggerty School in Connie Nagle's classroom are learning all about nutritional foods. Learning the ABC's of food, although at least one will quickly admit "she likes

Bike-A-Thon to help raise funds for St. Jude Hospital

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced today that Alfred Scicluna has again agreed to chair the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon in Belleville.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to over 4,200 patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude's, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle cell anemia, and other child killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

The Bike-a-Thon program is dedicated to "Terry". Terry was diagnosed with leukemia in March of 1978, and began treatment at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Today, she is well and off all medication. Terry is a living example of the progress and success of the research, patient care, and educational programs of this internationally recognized hospital.

The funds raised in the Bike-a-Thons this spring will help assure the continuation of the life giving work at the hospital.

The concern which Scicluna has for the work being done at St. Jude is greatly appreciated. The children hope the citizens of Belleville will support the upcoming Bike-a-Thon.

Prohaska wins VFW district contest

Sue Prohaska, Belleville High School senior, was the district winner in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Scholarship program. She wrote a radio script on the theme, "Youth - America's Strength".

VFW member, Albert Toncevich of District IV said: "Students win more than awards and scholarships when they participate in the VFW Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program."

In the 20 years the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary have sponsored the Voice of Democracy Program, more than 3,000,000 high school students have participated.

Participants write and then tape-record a three-to-five minute broadcast script expressing their views on the theme.

From among the state winners, six national winners are chosen to receive a total of $32,500 in scholarships.

Here's what's happening in Romulus schools

HALECREEK SCHOLARS NAMED

The fifth and sixth grade teachers at Halecreek School have named their classroom scholars for the seventh annual Halecreek College Bowl. Named as scholars are sixth grade students Tony Alongi, Bobby Austria, Christopher Hardy, Wendy King, Jamie Laden, Kenny Stewart and Joseph Zurawski. Fifth grade scholars are Doug Allen, Beth Bergman, Dawn Jackson, Tracy Lawyer and Jenny Samples.

"College Bowl" is an academic game played like the Channel 9 television program "Reach for the Top." Each student is required to study identified subjects contained in the Compton Encyclopedia. Items to be studied include Biochemistry, Julius Ceasar, Geography, Geology, Heredity and Physiology. Principal Art McPharlin will meet with the scholars each week to rotate the encyclopedias, answer questions or concerns and to practice playing the game "College Bowl." Soon the students will divide into two teams to select their captain and the University they will represent during the contest.

The main intent of this unique program is to allow certain students the opportunity to learn additional facts and information not normally offered to elementary students. These scholars will not only study additional facts and information, but hopefully find a science or history area that they especially like and then explore in greater depth. The contest also offers students a competitive experience in a team effort as well as note taking, learning skills, and outlining. The contest will be held in late May with three distinguished judges. Each scholar will receive a beautiful academic trophy provided by the Halecreek Parent Teacher Guild as a remembrance of their "Scholar" days at Halecreek Elementary School.

Action Oldsmobile — no reason to go anyplace else . . .

By SUE BACHAND
ANP Staff Writer

The big car is back . . . and Action Oldsmobile is the place to find it. That's the observation of Action Olds sales Manager Jim Schaefer — who can attest from recent experience to the increasing popularity of larger luxury cars — along with the other Oldsmobile models this year.

"It's like the good old days in here," he commented, "business is excellent. If you had been here last night, you wouldn't have believed it. I think the economy is swinging around and improving."

"I see a lot of pent-up demand for a new automobile and Olds has just a great line of cars this year," Schaefer continued.

Action Olds has been at the present location on Plymouth Road in Livonia for about nine years, and business has been increasing steadily during that time. Increasing so steadily, in fact, the dealership is presently hosting a construction sale while a new showroom and sales department are being built to accommodate the growing number of satisfied customers who flock to Action for car purchases and service.

"The completely new building will be on the same site, but we felt we needed better and larger facilities to accommodate and better serve the customers," Schaefer said. "This will be a new, modern image for us, and with the increased room in the service department, we will be able to hire more people and improve and speed up service for our customers."

That service department is obviously a matter of pride with Schaefer, who explained that Action Oldsmobile employs an inspector whose sole function is to check each mechanic's work before the vehicle is picked up by the customer. "That's all he does, check the work — he does nothing else. We believe this is important, because we know that when a car goes out of the shop, the customer got what he paid for. We're very confident of that," Schaefer added.

The present construction, or sidewalk sale, will continue until June, and Schaefer explained that he doesn't know of a better time to get the best deal possible on a new or used car. Presently, he estimates, there are more than 200 new or used cars on the premises for customers to choose — but the favorite, he confessed, remains the Oldsmobile Cutlass.

"The Cutlass is still number one — it has been the number one selling car in its class for a lot of years. It is a mid-size car that appeals to just about everybody — there isn't one type of buyer that it appeals to more than another," he added.

But the car that has convinced Schaefer that the economy is finally turning around is the top of the line Oldsmobile Ninety Eight Regency Brougham — which right now, according to Schaefer, "is selling like hotcakes." It's selling so well, he only has two models left, but more on the way to appease the appetites of buyers hungry for the look, feel and most of all, the comfort of a larger size car.

"I think people have always liked the bigger cars — particularly for the comfort — but gas prices swung them over to the economy sizes. That is changing now, gas prices are starting to go down and as I said — Oldsmobile is America's favorite car, it's that simple."

Schaefer has 20 years in the car business, and has seen a lot of trends in the automotive industry, but still believes in Oldsmobile as the favorite — "just like the commercial says."

Financing through General Motors Acceptance Corp. is available at the dealership and according to Schaefer, more than 60 percent of buyers are taking advantage of the plan available at Action. "The financing is at competitive rates, and that along with our attitude, good sales and service is the reason we just can't understand why anybody in the market for a car wouldn't buy from us. That is really our sales philosophy. We have pleasant salesmen, experienced, well-trained servicemen and are offering the best deals anywhere as far as prices on the cars. There is no reason in the world for any customer not to buy from us. "Whatever it is that the customer wants, we try to give it to them — that's the reason we are the fastest growing Oldsmobile dealer in the state," he concluded.

Sales Managers Jim Schaefer and Dick Melkonian and General Manager Tom Kool of Action Oldsmobile are awaiting their new sales facility.

RNs 8 West Rehabilitation/ Spinal Cord Injury Unit

The University of Michigan Hospitals has increased beds and expanded its treatment services for patients requiring rehabilitation.

The General Rehabilitation component of the unit will treat patients who require intensive rehabilitation as a result of cerebro-vascular accident, traumatic brain injury, neuromuscular disorders and chronic pain syndromes. The Spinal Cord Injury component will treat patients during both the acute and rehabilitation phases of recovery. In addition to the physical care of patients, nurses concentrate on education and emotional support of patients and families.

8 West has an active commitment to a joint practice philosophy which enhances the comprehensive treatment of patients and creates a satisfying work environment. Best of all, however, nurses who work on 8 West have the opportunity to see the result of their professional efforts in the progress of their patients.
